Wednesday evening: Thursday is back on, and two questions on sources wait for you

Wednesday 11 November 2026, 15:45 UTC (for the 18:00 London stand-up) · conductor@PrompTugal.dinis

Since the midday brief: 28 releases (v0.1.1232 to v0.1.1260). The storm eased: IPMA cut Lisbon's red rain to 15:00 and the orange wind to 18:00, and Thursday is back on in the lead. After your 'yes, don't use them', Vicky's agents stopped every machine read of websummit.com, its app, Luma, Meetup and Eventbrite, and security@ confirms no websummit.com reader is left. Two questions are yours: what happens to data already read from Web Summit's site, and whether the event platforms are read by hand or not at all.

For you to decide

Two decisions on sources

1 S39: data machine-read from websummit.com before its terms were known is still published. Keep, re-source or take down?
security@'s finding (medium, legal). Nothing existing is changed until you say, per Vicky's rule. The terms inventory is with Vicky to send to you privately.

2 Luma, Meetup and Eventbrite: read by hand, or not at all?
Vicky's team stopped machine reads at about 14:30 (their terms and robots.txt). Lisbon Fringe's brief lists them; its lead conductor has the question (work/49).

Also yours

3 Top up the shared OpenRouter credit
social.watch@ blocked since about 05:00 UTC.

4 The press pass, sherpa@'s token on account B, the euro Stripe link Unchanged.
